

State of Washington Letter of Medical Necessity

Certain medical expenses are not reimbursable under a Medical Flexible Spending Arrangement (FSA) unless a licensed health care professional states that the service or product is medically necessary. These expenses require a Letter of Medical Necessity (LMN) before they can be reimbursed.

IRS Regulation Section 1.213(d)(1) defines “medical care” to include amounts paid for the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease, or for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body.

Some services or products do not always treat a medical condition. For example:

- Vitamins and dietary supplements
- Cosmetic procedures and products
- Weight loss programs

For a complete list of expenses that require a LMN can be found online at <http://pebb.naviabenefits.com/benefits/expenses>.

IRS Regulation Section 1.213 says “[an] expenditure which is merely beneficial to the general health of an individual...is not an expenditure for medical care.”

IRS Revenue Ruling 2003-102 excludes vitamins by stating that vitamins and dietary supplements are “merely beneficial...to general good health” and, therefore, not reimbursable.

However, there are exceptions to the above rules. Examples:

- Vitamin C would be eligible for reimbursement if your doctor diagnosed scurvy and prescribed vitamin C as a treatment.
- Calcium supplements would be eligible for reimbursement if your doctor diagnosed osteoporosis and prescribed calcium for a treatment.
- Certain weight loss medications would be eligible for reimbursement if your doctor has prescribed them to treat a medical condition such as obesity.

Have your licensed health care professional complete the LMN if your claim has been denied or you think it might be denied. A doctor’s letter satisfying all the required fields in the LMN is also acceptable.

Over-the-counter medicines and drugs

Over-the-counter (“OTC”) medicines and drugs (excluding insulin) require a prescription, LMN or letter satisfying all the required fields in the LMN from your doctor before Navia Benefit Solutions can reimburse you. Provide one of the above with your claim and we will store the documentation for the duration permitted.
